2. Jurassic World is an adventure science fiction movie. The story is based on science and technology facts, some of which are true and others imaginary. How do you think science and technology can help us take better care of the earth, as Pope Francis asks of us?
3. The purpose of science fiction stories is to help us better understand what it means to be a human being, and a member of the human family. Which characters in the film do you think were more authentically human, and why? Which characters grew in their understanding of what it means to be human, and a caretaker of creation? Who did not? Think of Claire, Owen, Vic, Dr. Wu, and Barry. What do Gray and Zach learn, as well as their parents and Aunt Claire?

4. The owner of the park, Simon Masrani, wants Dr. Wu to create something fantastic that will create interest in the park; while Claire wants to increase attendance and profit. But is profit a good enough reason to manipulate nature? Why or why not? Why isn't anyone thinking of possible dangers to humans and the future of the earth when scientists are blending the genes of dinosaurs to create Indominus Rex for entertainment purposes? There's no faith directly expressed in the film, but what would you do to remain an authentic human being and follower of Jesus if you worked for someone like Dr. Wu?
